

For years we have been supporting many children with their cost of schooling. Although primary state education is nominally free many poor families cannot afford the ancillary costs which include uniforms, bags, books and stationery, transport and extra wages for teachers which parents are often asked to contribute towards. Without this help, many children are unable to get an education. We are currently providing about £7000 a year which covers the costs for 600 children.

